Introductory.

The Colonial Trust Company of Pittsburgh, in re-publishing this Directory of Pittsburgh for the year 1815, has endeavored to reproduce it in its entirety, with all its inaccuracies, its curious phraseology, and quaint information.

We have not attempted to revise the original edition in any particular, and so feel assured this little volume will be of exceedingly great interest to the Pittsburgher of to-day showing, as it does, the gigantic strides the city has made since the first recorded directory was published.

PREFACE

AFTER a short delay, arising from causes not within the control of the Compiler, the Pittsburgh Directory is now presented to the public.

The difficulties naturally attendant upon the first attempt at a work of this kind, will, to candid reflecting minds, be a sufficient apology for the errors it may appear—to men of different dispositions, the Compiler does not deem it necessary to offer one. He has spared no pains to render it as correct as circumstances would admit, having done so, he has done all he promised, and believes it will be found not unworthy of the encouragement he has received in this he may be mistaken—it is now before the Public and they will judge.

PITTSBURGH.

THE SEAT OF JUSTICE FOR ALLEGHENY COUNTY, PENN.

Is situated on a point of land formed by the confluence of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, in lat. $40^{\circ} 35'$ N. long. $80^{\circ} 38'$ W. about 300 miles W. by N. from Philadelphia, 250 from Washington City, and 1100 (by land) from New Orleans.

In early times a fort was established here called Du Quesne, which in 1758 was blown up and evacuated on the approach of General Forbes.—Shortly after a fort was built by the British called Fort Pitt, and about the year 1760 a small town called Pittsburgh was built near the fort—but the present town of Pittsburgh was first laid out in 1765, and afterwards laid out and surveyed, on its present plan, in 1784.

The ground plot of the town is triangular, the streets running parallel with each river, which at their junction form an angle of about 33 degrees.

The population in 1800 was about 2,400 souls — in 1810 the census gave 4,740, and in 1815, a calculation founded on what is believed to be correct data, makes an estimate of upwards of 9,000. This great increase of population is to be attributed to the late war with Great Britain, which converted a great portion of the capital of the seaboard into manufactures, much of which was concentrated in this place. The transportation of southern produce, during the war, through Pittsburgh across the mountains, also contributed greatly to the increase of the population here.

Three weekly newspapers are published in the borough, besides two periodical literary works—the former have an extensive circulation—the latter are chiefly confined to the town and immediate vicinity.

The public buildings, (in addition to the churches, hereafter enumerated) are a Court house, Prothonotary's, Register's, Sheriff's and Commissioner's offices, a Jail, three incorporated Banks, a Dramatic Theatre, a Masonic Hall, three Market Houses; (one in the Diamond and two in Second street) an Academy, &c.

Few places can boast of more useful improvements in manufactures and the mechanical arts than Pittsburgh—it has been justly and emphatically styled “The Birmingham of America.” A comparative view of its progress must indeed awaken admiration. Until about the year 1798 its increase was not rapid—in the year 1815 we behold it rich and flourishing, daily augmenting in manufactures and commerce.

NOTE.

It is but an act of justice to mention, that for the statement contained in the above description, I am in a great measure indebted to “The Navigator,” published by Messrs. Cramér, Spear & Eichbaum.—

THE EAGLE FIRE COMPANY.

This institution was formed in May 1810, and although originally composed entirely of young men, is the oldest society of the kind in Pittsburgh. Active and enterprising married men are now admitted as members. An election for all the officers of the company is held annually on the first Saturday in May, these consist of a President, a Secretary, who is also Treasurer, an Engineer and one assistant, a Captain and four directors.

Except at the time of the general election, no meetings are held but when there is some business for the company to transact, they are then called by the President, at the request or with the consent of six members. To admit any one as a member it requires the unanimous vote of those present, after being proposed by some one of them.—A majority may accept the resignation of any person who wishes to quit the institution.

At the general election held at Mr. Jones' tavern on Saturday the 6th of May, the following persons were unanimously elected officers for the ensuing year.

The establishment of "The Pittsburgh Steam Engine Company," on the N. side of Front below Ferry street, consists of a

STEAM ENGINE FACTORY,

For furnishing steam engines on Oliver Evans's construction.

AN AIR FOUNDRY,

On an extensive scale, capable of furnishing castings of any description, but particularly adapted to machinery.

AN ANVIL AND ANCHOR FACTORY,

Capable of furnishing anvils and anchors of the largest size. Many of the anchors for Commodore Perry's squadron on lake Erie, were made at this Factory.

A BRASS FOUNDRY,

Calculated for general castings, but more particularly for machinery and large bells which will be warranted of the first quality.

A BUTT-HINGE FACTORY,

On a scale sufficiently large to supply any demand.—It is also intended to supply small castings annealed.

A PATTERN MAKER'S SHOP ; AND A BORING AND TURNER'S SHOP ;

The lathes are driven by the force of steam ; and all orders in the different branches of turning Iron, Brass, Wood, &c. will be executed with despatch.—They also carry on the business of

SCREW MAKING,

AIR FOUNDRIES,

There are three Foundries in Pittsburgh and one in Birmingham, at which castings of every description, from a cannon to a spider, are extensively and handsomely executed. In connection with the Foundry of Messrs. McClurgs and McKnight, is a mill for boring Cannon.

BREWERIES,

There are three large and extensive Breweries and one upon a smaller scale. . They consume from $20 to $30,000 bushels of grain, and manufacture about 10,000 barrels of beer, ale, and porter, annually.

LEAD FACTORIES.

Two White Lead factories, by A Beelen and J. Stevenson,—and a White and Red Lead factory by Trevor, Pettigrew and Troost, who also manufacture various acids, &c.

STIRRUP IRONS AND BRIDLE BITS.

These articles are manufactured extensively; sufficiently so, it is said, to supply the demands of the western country.

SADDLERY.

This business is carried on to a large amount, and the work is said to be at least equal to that done in any other part of the United States.

BRUSH MAKING.

There are two brush factories, the one owned by William Blair, the other by George Beale—large quantities of every description of Brushes are made.

ROPE WALKS.

There are three large and extensive Rope Walks, which make all kinds of ropes, twine and cordage. The principal part of the cordage for Perry's Fleet was made here. Two cables weighed each, about 4,000 lbs. and were $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter.

Carries on the Manufactory of Woollen Cloths, such as Superfine and Common Broad Cloths, Blankets and Paper maker's Felting—Which he proposes selling at the Philadelphia Prices—and warrants the color and durability of his Cloths equal to that imported from Great Britain.

He also manufactures Kerseyettes, and Sattinettes, and carries on the Hosiery business, such as Stockingnetts, Half Hose, &c. woollen and cotton.

G. C. having surmounted great difficulties in the establishment of a new manufactory, commenced nearly three years ago, when workmen and machinery were difficult to procure, relies on the patronage of a patriotic and generous public, for the support of an establishment important to the interest of the western country.

G. C. cards wool and dresses cloth, for those who may please to favor him with their custom.

POTTERY.

Messrs. Trotter & Co. have established a Queensware Pottery, at which they manufacture pitchers, coffee and tea pots and cups, bowls, jugs, &c. similar to those of the Potteries in Philadelphia.

LOCKS, &c.

James Patterson, in Birmingham, manufactures Door and House Locks of every description, Coffee-mills, and Saddler's Buckles. He also makes Printer's Composing Sticks, rules, and Chases.

BUTT HINGES, &c.

William Price, at his Foundry at the Round house, makes Crucibles to cast all kinds of iron, brass, &c. of every dimension. All kinds of small castings in brass or iron, softened fit for turning or filing, for all kinds of machinery—he also casts Butt-hinges, and manufactures Fire Bricks for furnaces, foundries, bake houses, glass houses, &c.

NOTE.

It was my wish to give as full a statement as possible of the manufactures of Pittsburgh, and for this purpose gave an invitation, through the medium of the News-papers, to the manufacturers, to furnish me with the materials necessary for compiling such a statement—this, except in two or three instances, has not been done. I was therefore left to my own observation and the information to be gleaned from other publications on the same subject. This has rendered the article on manufactures more meagre than it otherwise might have been.

INSTRUCTIONS

For the Government of those who have claims for Pay and Bounty, Half-pay, Pensions, and Bounty-land, under the Acts of Congress, relative to the Military Establishment of the U. States.

1st.—Pay and Bounty.

Those persons who have claims for pay and bounty as the legal representatives of such non-commissioned officers, artificers, musicians and privates, as die in the service of the U. States, must make application to the Paymaster General of the Army, or to his sub paymasters, who act as his agents. All balances of pay and bounty, at the time of the decease of such non-commissioned officer, &c. will be paid by the Paymaster General or his sub paymasters, to the widow, child, or legal representative of the deceased, who must produce written and legal evidence of his or her authority to demand and receipt for the same. When administration is granted to a creditor, solely as a creditor, no more will be paid than is barely sufficient to cover his claim, and the balance, if any, will be reserved for the benefit of the kindred, or relations of the deceased. Affidavits of respectable persons, knowing the legality of the representative of a deceased soldier, will be sufficient evidence to be produced, provided the deceased died a minor, unmarried, and no administration has been granted on the estate. If any person administers, for the purpose of receiving the balance due, a copy of the letters of administration must be produced. Should the deceased leave a widow, and no administration has been granted on the estate, the balance will be paid to her, on her producing satisfactory evidence that she was his wife at the time he died.

2d.—Half-pay Pensions to Widows and Orphans.

Widows and Orphans, who have claims to five years half-pay according to an Act of Congress, must establish the following facts, before they can receive the above pension:—1st. The date of the decease of the officer or soldier, under whom they claim; this fact may be established by the records of the War Department, by the proper rolls of the army, by the testimony of military officers, or by that of other respectable persons. 2d. The legality of the marriage, the name of the widow, the name and number of the children, under sixteen years of age, at the father's decease, and the county, state, or territory, in which she and they reside. 3d. That the widow, at the time of allowing this half-pay, was not married: she must also repeat that she is not married, at the time of receiving EACH PAYMENT, and establish the fact by the testimony of respectable persons knowing the case, as, in the event of marriage, the half-pay reverts to such of her children as are under sixteen years of age.—In cases of orphans only, the guardians will act for them, establish their claims as above, and receive their pensions. All these evidences must be produced to and filed in the office of the Paymaster General of the army; and or ders will be issued to the several district paymasters to pay the pensions on the spot where it falls due.

3d.—Bounty Lands.

Claims for bounty-land must be substantiated; and this must be done by the REGULAR DISCHARGE of the ORIGINAL CLAIMANT, from the public service: the best voucher that can be produced. Certificates, from the pay office should be carefully preserved, as indexes to the records of the ORIGINAL RIGHT. If the original claimant does not personally apply for his land warrant, he must prove his identity before a magistrate, by his own affidavit and the affidavits of two witnesses, whose CREDIBILITY the said magistrate will CERTIFY; and must execute a power of attorney to whoever applies for the warrant in his behalf: the quality and signature of the magistrate, before whom the said affidavits are made, or the power of attorney is acknowledged, must be attested by the signature and seal of the county clerk, or other equivalent authority of the district in which he resides.

The power of attorney, to authorise the delivery of a land warrant, may be dispensed with in case a member of Congress, while that body is actually in session, will call at the War Department and sign a receipt for it, upon the record. In this case, a letter of order, in his favor, from the person who has the right to receive the warrant, addressed to the Secretary of War, will be deemed sufficient authority for its delivery.

If the ORIGINAL CLAIMANT be dead, and an heir applies in his right, he must produce legal certificates from competent authority, to prove that he is a LEGITIMATE HEIR BY LAW; in which case, although there may be other heirs existing, a warrant will be issued in that name, adding thereto, "and OTHER HEIRS AT LAW OF," &c. &c.

A land warrant will not be issued to an executor or administrator.

All claimants for bounty-lands, must make application to the War Department.
